

EDITORIAL NOTE

For the last six years or so our colleague Dr. S. S. Deshpande had very ably shouldered the responsibility of managing Indian Philosophical Quarterly. In fact, Dr. Deshpande is connected with the Indian Philosophical Quarterly right from the beginning of the New Series. In the interest of academic pursuits, he wanted to get relieved from the day-to-day management of the Indian Philosophical Quarterly. The editors also realised that management of the journal should not come in the way of Dr. Deshpande's academic pursuits and therefore the responsibility of day-to-day management of the Indian Philosophical Quarterly has been put on the shoulders of Prof. M. P. Marathe. The editors profusely appreciate the work Dr. Deshpande has done for the Indian Philosophical Quarterly from the very inception of the New Series. Dr. Deshpande's connection with the Indian Philosophical Quarterly is still to continue as he has been taken as one of the editors. The journal is likely to be benefitted both by his experience in management as also by his leadership in editing.

In the new arrangement there are six editors. The old two editors Dr. Barlingay and Dr. Prasad continue as editors. But the consent of four more philosophers, Prof. Mrinal Miri (NEHU) and Prof. R. Sundara Rajan, Prof. M. P. Marathe and Dr. S. S. Deshpande (Poona University) has now been obtained. All these six editors will now look after the editing of the Indian Philosophical Quarterly. We are sure that subscribers and contributors of the Indian Philosophical Quarterly will appreciate this change.
